

Doyle's Dialogue

Theme: Seasons and Weather

Date: September 21st-25th

The K2 Preview

We will continue to learn about seasons and weather this week. We are throwing our creativity into our The Seasons of Trees book. Through this book, we are showing characteristics of seasonal weather and its affect on nature. In the upcoming week, we will make many manipulatives to explore aspects of weather, such as pinwheels and rainsticks. We will conclude our study of seasons by enjoying a local harvest, apples! We will make the apple pie that chef will bake for us. Then we will enjoy our fall favorite!

Language Arts: site words: brown, not, find, three; site word book Fall I see...; word family: '-ad (bad, sad, etc); sentence structure, punctuation, rhyming words, inventive spelling, reading color words, ABC order

Math: write numerals to 20, counting coins, directional and ordinal words, geometric shapes, graphing, simple word problems

Science: theme book: The Seasons of a Tree; Fall; local weather patterns; precipitation, inclement

Practice at Home

All homework is due on Friday.

For language, your child will find the final sound to complete the word. Then they will rewrite the word using proper handwriting formation. The next activity requires your child to find the hidden rhyming word in the picture. Then they must write their own rhyming word.

In math, your child will count and write the number of dots in each square. Then your child will color the square with more dots red. The second activity will focus on number identification. Please have your child cut out the number cards, mix them up, and put them in order from 0 to 20. After sequencing the cards, hold up one card at random and have your child call out the number.

In addition to these pages, please have your child read his/her individual baggie book each night. Also, make a set of site words for your child and review them nightly. Our site words this week are : brown, not, find, three, and -ay words (hay, ray).
