

Doyle's Dialogue

Theme: Seasons and Weather

Date: September 14th-18th

The K2 Preview

This week we will begin to study the seasons and local weather patterns. We will look closely at characteristics of the Fall season as we quickly head into the weather change. We will also explore the sun as a source of warmth and light, thermometers, and clouds.

As we study weather, we will investigate and transform Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs to create our own book. On Friday, September 18th, we will go to Camelot Cinemas for a private viewing of the recent movie release.

Language Arts: site words: me, big, two, red; site word book Fall I see...; word family: '-ing (king, ring, etc); punctuation (periods, question marks, and exclamation points); opposites

Math: write numerals to 20, simple word problems, geometric shapes, ordinal numbers and positional words, identifying and counting pennies, reading a graph

Science: theme book: The Seasons of a Tree; seasons; Fall; local weather patterns; cloud; temperature; measuring temperature; harvest

Practice at Home

All homework is due on Friday.

For language, your child will complete two phonics sheets that will allow them to isolate the final sound of the provided picture to complete the word. Then, they must rewrite the word on the line below the picture. Please ensure your child is using proper handwriting techniques during this activity. An additional sheet is attached in which your child must find the initial sound to complete the animal name.

In math, your child will read the time on the analogue clock and complete the sentences about time. The second math sheet requires your child to follow verbal, ordinal directions and place the toys on the correct shelf.

In addition to these pages, please have your child read his/her individual baggie book to you. Also, make a set of site words for your child (index cards work great) and review them nightly. Our site words this week are : me, big, two, red, and -ing family words.

The adoption center at PetSmart was the perfect place for us to pick out a family pet for everyone!